As miners worldwide increasingly feel the impact of the global financial crisis, the industry's strategic landscape is one that is fast changing. How will the world's biggest mining companies transform their global business strategies? What will junior and mid tier mining companies need to do to ride out this downturn?

The spotlight shifts from the West to the East as Asia emerges as an ever more powerful resource investor and Asia Mining Congress returns in 2009 to present business-critical content with a focus on delivering access to new sources of investment.

With an impressive 100-strong speaker line-up of global mining leaders and Asia's top metals conglomerates, the 2009 event has confirmed the attendance of investors representing billions of dollars in capital and will provide an unparalleled opportunity to meet with Asian & Middle Eastern investors who continue to have investment appetites for commodities.

Besides for the main power-packed 3 day investment conference, our pre-conference capital raising summit is back for its 2nd year with graver issues on its agenda; tackling the state of today's global economy and exploring capital raising opportunities in Asia. The annual project finance & legal masterclass will for the first time include an additional session on the role & strategies of technical due diligence.

Also, integrated within the main Asia Mining Congress conference by popular demand, the event will continue to offer the most important content featuring thought leadership, new technologies and strategies in mineral exploration, mine optimisation and project risk management through a suite of 3 co-located forums open to all delegates.

Get set to be part of an elite gathering of the biggest players in the metals & mining industry in Asia- New investments and business opportunities await you at Asia Mining Congress 2009.
